

FEILMAN, MARGARET ANNE, 1921-2013

Dr Margaret Anne Feilman, OBE, BA (1943), Registered Architect (1946), Dip.TP (Durham UK) 1950, was the first female architect cadet in the Public Works Department, Western Australia.

Dr Feilman worked in Melbourne and took up a British Council Scholarship in the UK, before returning to Perth in 1950 to set up in private practice as an architect and town planning consultant. Her practice, Feilman Planning Consultants, was the only one of its kind operating in Western Australia at the time. With legal expertise provided by the late Gerald Keall (solicitor), she introduced the first environmental controls in local government town planning schemes in many areas including Northam, Albany, Busselton and Chapman Valley.

Following her retirement from this practice in 1984 Dr Feilman was invited to become Chairman of the Town Planning Board in WA. She served in this position for over two years.

Dr Feilman was heavily involved in voluntary community work. In the mid-1950s she assisted the foundation of the first natural environment organisation in W.A., The Tree Society. She was instrumental in establishing the National Trust of Australia (WA) and served on the Council and Executive of the Trust from 1959 to 1976. In 1973 she carried out a major part of the Trust's contribution to the Federal Government initiated Hope Committee of Enquiry into the National Estate. In 1976 she was invited by the Federal Government to join the Australian Heritage Commission as one of the initial seven Commissioners and served for five years. In 1981 she was awarded the OBE for community service in the conservation field. From 1977 to 1981 she served as Deputy Chairman of the National Trust and from 1981 to 1990 she was Chairman of Council of the National Trust of Australia (WA). The State Government recognized Margaret's contribution to the conservation of Western Australia's heritage in 1995 with a Heritage Council of Western Australia award.
