Western Australian Catholic Records: An Introduction to the Guide

Western Australian Roman Catholic sacramental records include those relating to baptisms, marriages, confirmations, deaths and burials, and they are particularly useful to the family historian and genealogist as sources of details of births, deaths, marriages and other events.

This guide to WA Catholic records provides information on how to locate:

- Indexes of the records
- The originals
- Transcripts and English translations held in the State Library of Western Australia
- Other digital and microfilm copies of the original records

Please note that this guide does not list any non-sacramental records (e.g. parish histories, etc.) of WA Catholic parishes. Such records are held by the respective archives of the Catholic Church in Western Australian, individual parishes, the State Library, local historical societies and museums, and elsewhere.

Acknowledgements

I wish to extend my grateful thanks to the librarians of the J. S. Battye Library of West Australian History and the retrievals staff of the State Library of Western Australia who facilitated my research for this project. Without their encouragement, patience and dedication, this compilation would not have come to fruition.

1. Indexes to WA Catholic Sacramental Records

A number of WA Catholic records, particularly those relating to baptisms, marriages and deaths, have been indexed on reputable genealogical websites. The databases of Ancestry.com and FamilySearch.org are particularly useful when searching for such records. Search under the relevant category (i.e. Australian births, deaths and marriages, or Australian church records) to access this information. Further useful information on where to search can be found here: https://www.familysearch.org/en/wiki/Western_Australia_Church_Records.

The following indexes are also useful:

Western Australian baptisms \(microfiche\), accessible at the State Library of Western Australia [929.39 WES]

Western Australian marriage index, 1829-1896 \(microfiche\), accessible at the State Library of Western Australia [929.39 BOW]

2. The Original Sacramental Records

The vast majority of original sacramental records (baptisms, marriages and confirmations, as well as records of deaths and burials) are held by the four Catholic dioceses of Western Australia: Perth, Geraldton, Bunbury, and Broome, as well as the Benedictine Community of New Norcia. Although a number of parishes within these dioceses still hold their own sacramental records, historical registers (particularly those dating from the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries) are typically held by the archives of the respective dioceses.

Useful contacts for WA diocesan archives are as follows:

NB. Original historical sacramental records held by the dioceses of Western Australia are typically to be found written in Latin. See Sections 3 and 4 of this guide for information on transcripts and translations of the original records.

3. Transcripts & Translations of Catholic Sacramental Records held in the State Library of Western Australia

In the 1970s and 1980s, Rica Erickson and her team of researchers diligently transcribed Western Australian historical biographical records for the compilation of the Western Australian Biographical Index (WABI). The project morphed into the Dictionary of Western Australians, which was later revised and published as the Bicentennial Dictionary of Western Australians. Among the records collected were handwritten and typed copies and translations of Catholic sacramental records which were indexed on the original WABI cards and later in the dictionaries. An alphabetical listing by parish/district of these records held by the State Library can be found in the following pages.

Although these holdings are fragmentary and do not cover every parish in the state, their usefulness is in the fact that they are predominately English translations of the original Catholic records which were scribed in Latin. In many cases, however, the transcripts are often only brief event details extracted from the original records and they do not necessarily reflect all the information recorded in the entries in the original registers.

With the listing of each parish below, the relevant Manuscript Note (MN) listings from which this work has been compiled have been noted. These can be consulted when requesting/retrieving the records from the Battye Library Private Archives collection in the State Library.

NB: Please also note that in the Format column of the listings, where the records are indicated to be in both MICROFILM and in hard copy/paper format (e.g. typescript or transcript), the microfilm should always be consulted first. The hard copy is, in most cases, the original transcript or photocopy from which the microfilm has been made, in which case the hard copy is a preservation original and the microfilm version is the access copy. If the hard copy original is required, please enquire with the Library's staff.

4. Western Australian Catholic Sacramental Records on FamilySearch.org

Over twenty years, the Genealogical Society of Utah (an organisation associated with the Church of Latter-Day Saints) microfilmed a number of original Western Australian Catholic parish registers to add to its collection of international records. Some of these microfilms have now been digitised on their website, FamilySearch.org, and can be accessed using a free account. However, there are a number of records which are only accessible through FamilySearch.org at its Family History Centres in person. These can be visited to access records free of charge. Further information on these centres and their location can be found here: https://www.familysearch.org/en/wiki/FamilySearch_Centers. Many of the Western Australia Catholic records which are still on film are, however, not accessible at this time (not online nor at Family History Centres). This is mainly because of privacy issues and other restrictions.

To identify whether the registers of a particular parish are accessible, locate that church/district in the following lists and take note of the relevant film number/s. In FamilySearch.org under Search => Catalog, search the Film number (without any item numbers), and from the search results select the relevant item. The Format column in the site's record listing will show one of the following symbols indicating its accessibility status:

The record is still on microfilm and is not accessible.

The record is available on FamilySearch.org. Click on the icon to access digitised copies of the microfilm records.

The records have been transcribed and are searchable through the FamilySearch.org main database.

The records have been digitised but are only accessible through FamilySearch.org at a Family History Centre.

NB. Most of the original records were written in Latin with portions of some registers being in English. Some of the records on FamilySearch.org have been transcribed and are recorded in the main database but have not necessarily been translated into English (except for dates).
