

IWANOFF, Iwan, 1919-1986

Iwan Iwanoff (Iwanow) was born in Bulgaria on 2 July 1919, the eldest son of journalist and poet, Nickolai Iwanow, and his wife, Maria nee Schopowa. Prior to military training, he studied fine arts, then architecture at the Technische Hochschule, Munich, Germany (Dip. Eng. And Arch., 1946). He married Dietlinde Hildegunde Zenns on 25 October 1947 in Laufen, Germany.

Iwan and his wife migrated to Australia as part of the International Refugee Organisation resettlement scheme, arriving in Fremantle, Western Australia in March 1950. He was employed as a draughtsman by Krantz & Sheldon, Perth and became an Australian citizen in 1956. In 1963, Iwan started his own business in Perth, "The Studio of Iwanoff". At this time, he became a member of the Royal Australian Institute of Architects and a Fellow in 1972. He was considered a gifted architect, with exceptional drawing abilities and an expressionistic approach to design and detailing.

¹ Possibly "Dalkeith Picture Gardens" at 122 Stirling Highway, Nedlands. Link (active at 22 April 2016): "Robert Hatfield bought a house on the south-west corner of the Stirling Highway/Louise Street intersection, and began to build an open air picture theatre beside it in Stirling Highway. He constructed a brick facade, set back from the street: two sets of double gates in this wall flanked a small shop fronting onto the highway. But before he opened the gardens, Nelsons opened the Windsor just up the street, and Hatfield allowed himself to be bought out of the gardens, so it was never completed or opened. The shop was used for some time afterwards as a dressmaker's shop by two of Robert Hatfield's daughters. Then the site was sold and became a public rose garden" http://www.ammpt.asn.au/CinemaWEB/SITE/view.php?rec_id=0000000452
