

CAMPAIGN AGAINST NUCLEAR ENERGY

The Campaign Against Nuclear Energy (CANE) was established in Perth by Friends of the Earth (FOE) on 14th February 1976 to stop the establishment of a nuclear power plant and a uranium mining industry in Western Australia. CANE was a coalition of concerned groups and individuals and was a member of the Coalition for a Nuclear Free Australia.

CANE supported the establishment of nuclear free zones and urged the adoption of alternative energy sources; was active in lobbying, organizing public protests, researching the problems associated with nuclear energy and raising public awareness of the downside of uranium based industries..

In 1983 the newly-elected Labor Government ruled out the possibility of developing nuclear energy in WA and many CANE members joined the People for Nuclear Disarmament (see ACC 8121A) CANE was disbanded in the late 1980s.
