Sharing our multicultural heritage: many cultures,

many languages

Western Australia is home to people from many cultures who speak more than 240 different languages.

Language is vital to understanding and sharing the culture and history of multicultural groups.

The State Library of Western Australia collects and shares multi-lingual resources such as newspapers, oral histories, films and documents that tell the stories of Western Australia's diverse communities.

With support from the Office of Multicultural Interests, more of these resources are now available online for teachers and learners of community languages and all people interested in our multi-cultural history.

Using Text and Newspapers

◆ Access the digitized collection of the Italian community newspaper II Canguro = The Kangaroo (Perth, WA: 1955–1957) and La Rondine (Perth, WA: 1969–1994) by searching on the Trove catalogue.

- Ask students to identify characters, words or phrases in the text.
- Select passages of the text to read out aloud to students, or ask students to read passages selected text.
- Find a small article or advertisement. Students can work in pairs or small groups to circle recognisable words and make new sentences from the words.
- Ask students to make an advertisement.
- Remove the headline from an article and ask students to read the article and create a new headline.
- Copy a range of articles and separate the headlines. Mix up the headlines and the articles and ask students to match headlines and articles.

Expand your vocabulary

Assign each student a letter of the alphabet. Ask students to browse through the text, find five unfamiliar words beginning with the assigned letter, and look up the definition of each. Then have each student create and illustrate a dictionary page containing the five words and their meanings. Combine the pages into a classroom dictionary. In a variation of this activity, you might ask students to look in the newspaper for any of the following:

- Words containing a particular vowel sound or consonant blend
- Compound words
- Words in the past, present, and future tenses
- Possessives
- Plurals
- Distribute headlines from less prominent stories and ask students to choose one and write a news story to go with it. When the stories have been completed, provide each student with the story that originally accompanied the headline.
- Create a newspaper clipping fodey.com
- Publish your own news... students can work together to create their own newspaper/brochure or poster readwritethink.org or homemade-gifts-made-easy.com

Activities for community culture and history in Western Australia

An understanding of the historical background of migration from Italy to Western Australia can provide context for students learning Italian. The State Library of Western Australia collects and preserves documentary resources associated with Western Australia. The State Library collections include materials relating to the history of the Italian community in Western Australia and encourage the use of these materials in sharing stories.

Materials include photographs, film, oral history recordings, community newspapers and other documents.

- Provide print outs or digital copies of the photographs selected and text on the history of the Italian Settlement in Western Australia. Ask students to retell the history using the photographs and any other relevant media they find. Students can use different presentation techniques such as a traditional poster, making a digital Popplet, Power Point presentation or a Prezi presentation. It may be useful for students to work in groups or pairs.
- Access the digitized copy of Italian community newspaper II Canguro on Trove.
- Direct students to the State Library website and ask students to search for an oral history. There are over 50 Italian community oral histories available to listen to online.
- Search for 'Italian Western Australia' in the Australian Dictionary of Biography web site
- Older more proficient students may like to create a version of the history summary below for an Italian audience, perhaps creating a brochure that includes newspaper articles, images and newspaper reports relating to the time.

History of Italian Settlement in Western Australia

While there were a handful of Italians in colonial Western Australia, larger scale Italian migration to Western Australia began in the late 1880s after the discovery of gold. Early migrants included fishermen from Sicily and Puglia, and miners from the northern provinces of Lombardy.

Although the 'White Australia' policy of 1901 did not exclude Italians who were seen as a cheap and necessary European labour force, they faced prejudice which occasionally erupted into open hostility in events such as the Kalgoorlie riots of 1919 and 1934.

Early migrants were predominantly male 'sojourners' who went back and forth, and it wasn't until the inter-war period that more Italian women came to join their husbands or sons and settle permanently.

After WWII, an unprecedented number of Italians came to Western Australia seeking better lives, 40,000 of whom settled permanently. Post-war Italians were predominantly from the South of Italy and, unlike their pre-war counterparts, they settled in mostly in metropolitan Perth and Fremantle. Italian migrants worked in a range of jobs from construction and manufacturing, to fishing, farming, agriculture and mining with relatively high rates of self-employment in businesses from food production to transport.

Italians have had a major social and cultural as well as economic impact on Western Australia. As the first large group of non- Anglo-Celtic migrants to settle in Western Australia, their experiences have influenced how Western Australians encountered subsequent waves of migrants who were culturally different. Today, while the number of people in Western Australia claiming Italian ancestry continues to grow, the Italian-born population is ageing and diminishing.

According to the last census in 2016, Western Australia was home to:

- 19,210 people born in Italy (0.8% of the population)
- 122,943 people of Italian ancestry (5% of the population)
- 29,401 people who speak Italian at home
